Bob Moser Honored Among Top Executives in Washington State

Seattle – Seattle Business magazine honored Bob Moser, Laird Norton Wealth Management (LNWM) president and CEO, as one of Washington state's top business leaders at the magazine's annual Executive Excellence Awards Dinner on January 31, 2019. The publication selected Bob for building a firm focused on the future in a changing industry and for his commitment to creating community partnerships that have led LNWM to become one of the Pacific Northwest's leading corporate philanthropists.

"Over the last ten years, Bob has transformed LNWM into a firm that reflects the dynamic spirit of optimism and perpetual giving of oneself that defines our region," said Jeff Vincent, president & CEO of Laird Norton Company and chairman of LNWM's Board of Directors. "Seattle Business recognizes Bob as an inspiration for innovation and a model of civic engagement, and I couldn't agree more."

The Seattle Business Executive Excellence Awards Dinner is one of the Pacific Northwest's most prestigious business leadership events of the year, recognizing Washington executives who show outstanding leadership in guiding their companies to success and drawing nominations from some of the state's most respected business leaders. Moser is one of 14 honorees for 2019 from among nearly 100 submissions.

Moser is also one of two executives from the Laird Norton family of companies recognized for business excellence this year. Vincent was selected by the Puget Sound Business Journal for one of its 2019 Family Business Leadership Awards.

“Through his actions and leadership, Bob represents the values-driven, long-term thinking central to LNWM’s success,” continued Vincent. “By recognizing Bob in the company of so many outstanding executives, Seattle Business is helping tell the world what we already know: That world-class leadership is found right here at Laird Norton Wealth Management.”
